Mobile Courtroom Technology

Mobile Evidence Presentation Systems (MEPS)

The United States District Court for the District of Columbia has four Mobile Evidence Presentation Systems (MEPS) that can be used in almost all courtrooms. The systems offer the following features:

- ELMO or Sony evidence presenter
- Video monitors for the judge, jury, witness, counsel, and courtroom clerk
- Video cassette player
- Two MEPS have computer inputs that allow counsel to display evidence or exhibits from their own laptop computers
- The same two MEPS have "John Madden" annotation pens at the podium and witness stand

With two Electronic Courtrooms and four MEPS, the Court has the capability of providing evidence presentation technology in six courtrooms at any given time.

Videoconferencing Systems

In addition to the integrated videoconferencing system permanently installed in Courtroom 16, the Court also offers attorneys use of a second mobile videoconferencing system for use in Courtrooms 2 and 9, as well as in the Court's videoconference room.
